GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to herewith transmit my report for the past two years, ending December 1, 1912.

At the Department for the Colored there there have been since my last biennial report a great number of minor ailments, and a few major ones, as well as a few surgical cases which required my services. Tonsolitis, enteritis, and bronchitis were somewhat prevalent during the years 1910-'11 and 1911-'12. Tonsolitis and bronchitis during the winter months, and enteritis during the spring months.

We had during the session of 1910 and 1911 many cases of itch, all of which recovered. During the first two months of the session of 1910 and '11 we had a few cases of malaria and two cases of tuberculosis. The fever cases all recovered, and we sent the tubercular cases home. We have at present one case of typhoid fever that seemingly will recover.

The general health has greatly improved for the last two years and we hope to bring it to a much higher standard with your honorable assistance in the following recommendations:

We recommend that the basement in the boys' building, or a part of the same, be converted into a trunk room, so that we may carry out more thoroughly our plan of fumigating all trunks and clothing at the beginning of each school year. By so doing we will be able to obtain more dormitory space.
